

Sofia Adroque', P.C. of Law Firm Looper Reed & McGraw, P.C., Named One of Hispanic Business Magazine's "Elite Women" of 2007

Monday, April 02, 2007

Sofia Adroque', P.C., a Member of the Houston law firm of Looper Reed & McGraw, P.C., has been named one of Hispanic Business magazine's Elite Women of 2007. Only 20 women across the U.S. are honored with this title each year. They are all women who have had a national impact by demonstrating the highest levels of achievement in their chosen professions in business, sports, government, public service or academia. Each year one of the 20 women is selected to be the Hispanic Business Woman of the Year.

Sofia Adrogué graduated Phi Beta Kappa, magna cum laude, with a B.A. from Rice University, and received her law degree from the University of Houston Law Center, also magna cum laude. She has been profiled by a litany of publications, including: Texas Lawyer (Texas' Top "40 Under 40"); H Texas (Houston's Top Lawyers and one of Houston's Professionals on the Fast Track); and Texas Monthly (Texas Rising Star). She practices in the areas of business and international litigation and alternative dispute resolution as well as in healthcare. Adroque' is also active in many charitable organizations and was recently named to the board of trustees of the Museum of Fine Arts, Houston, after chairing the first-ever museum gala supporting Latin-American art.

Hispanic Business magazine is aimed at Hispanic business owners, entrepreneurs and professionals and covers contemporary business research, Hispanic market development, public policies and profiles of influential figures in the Hispanic business sector.